

OFFICIAL VOTE COUNT IS MADE

County To Be Well Represented at Austin Confab

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—An official count of the votes cast in the second primary was made by the county executive committee this morning and slight changes made in the report previously given out. The report turned in for the record this morning shows the following number of votes cast: Felix D. Oberholtzer, 6219; William Ferguson, 5314; W. C. Edwards, 5825; Barry Miller, 5271; Dan Moody, 5385; and Edward Ward, 4584; R. H. Terrell, 5116 and D. D. Baker, 4670; W. A. Nabors, 5233 and Leon Smith, 4410; C. M. Carleton, 4882 and Wm. C. West, 4523; C. G. Barker, 4637 and C. E. Nicholson, 4583.

By this official count Judge B. B. Johnson was given 3335 votes and U. E. Quinn, 5040; Ada Lockhart, 4141 and J. Wesley Garrett, 6250; J. L. Scherer, 1768 and J. F. McDonald, 2556. Joe Gilmer was given 317 votes and J. E. Turner, 511. T. W. Redman for justice of the peace, 2554 and L. H. Reeves, 1423. Tom Redman was given 2203 votes and Sam Hayes, 1824. L. C. Parford polled 2032 votes and M. Stafford, 2000.

Jefferson county will be well represented at the state democratic convention to be held at Austin on Monday. Those who have signified their intention of attending the convention include Max Hargrove, J. D. Henderson, J. A. Morris, P. A. Brown, W. H. Marston, Rev. Walter E. Houlgers and B. F. Quicksall, all of Beaumont and Mrs. T. L. Tish and Mrs. J. H. Touchette also of Beaumont. C. E. Nicholson of Port Neches will attend the convention. George Kutz and J. E. Alexander of Port Arthur also will leave for Austin tonight. It is expected that other Port Arthuriens including several Port Arthur women will attend the convention.

In a report offered to the county executive committee this morning, Chairman J. D. Hensley called attention to the fact that there was about $309 in the treasury, after paying the expenses of the first and second primaries.

Chairman Hensley stated, however, that it was his opinion that additional funds would have to be created to finance the third primary, and a motion was made and carried to allow the money left over from the first two primaries to remain in the treasury.

A decision was also reached to refund $25 to W. L. Gainer, candidate for justice of the peace. There was some misunderstanding with reference to the precinct lines and after Gainer had incurred a deal of expense it was found he was living in precinct 1 instead of precinct 4. The committee therefore voted to return the $25 deposit originally made while the committee when he announced for office.

TWO PORT ARTHUR COUPLES WEDDED
Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Two Port Arthur couples, George Hebert and Miss Maria Ducrest and Claude Dauphine and Miss Belle Preston, were married Saturday morning at the courthouse here by Rev. W. J. Blackmon. The couples came to the courthouse together, but separate ceremonies were performed. Both Mr. Hebert and Mr. Dauphine are employees of the Gulf Refinery at Port Arthur. BABY CLINIC AT PORT NECHES FRIDAY
Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Another health clinic will be held at Port Neches on Friday of this week. A clinic was held at Rosedale on Tuesday of last week with seven babies in attendance and five were brought to the clinic at Nome held on Thursday of the past week.

COUNTY HOSPITAL NEARS COMPLETION
Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—The new $20,000 Jefferson county tubercular hospital on the Eleventh street road here will be ready for occupancy within the next two weeks and arrangements will be made to take in patients immediately. Approximately 50 patients can be accommodated at the hospital at its completion and it will be one of the most modern institutions of its kind in this part of the state.

REPORT FISHING FINE AT BOLIVAR
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—A party including County Judge B. B. Johnson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Edwards and Miss Mary Sandell, returned from a camping trip to Port Bolivar Friday. Judge Johnson stated the fishing was fine and that the party caught 50 trout and redfish one morning.

200 Cases Disposed Of By Ellis in August

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—More than 200 cases were disposed of during the month of August by C. N. Ellis, judge of the county court at law here. Beginning Tuesday, Judge Ellis will take up his civil non-jury docket for the next week and following this will hear civil jury cases.

Of the cases disposed of by Judge Ellis, 35 were sent back to the courts from which they were appealed for collection. Out of the entire number disposed of, there were but 13 convictions where fines were assessed. These fines ranged from $1 to $100. The $100 fines were assessed for carrying pistols.

Many of the cases called by Judge Ellis had been filed several years back, and were dismissed on application of the county attorney. Some of the cases were so old that the witnesses had moved away and it was impossible to obtain a conviction without the evidence they would have given.

Judge Ellis declared that it was necessary to pass a number of cases for want of prosecution. He called attention to the fact that the cases were originally filed when there was a deal of ill-feeling between two persons. With the passing of time, the injury done did not seem to make such a difference and when the time came for the case to actually be called, it was next to impossible to force the person making the complaint into court.

This occurs frequently, according to Judge Ellis, when husbands and wives have disputes and then later regret the same. With the case disposed of, however, during the past month, the county court docket is practically clear of old cases.

DISMISS MIDWIFE PRACTICE REGULATION

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Regulation of midwife practice in Port Arthur will be discussed at a meeting called for Tuesday at the office of Dr. Pat Reed, city health officer. Dr. J. D. Elverson, county health officer, will be in Port Arthur at that time and plans will be discussed for carrying out work already started in Jefferson county by Dr. Moore.

FIVE DIVORCES GRANTED SATURDAY

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Five divorces were granted Saturday morning in 58th and 60th district courts. Marie Haucher was given a divorce and her former name, Marie Marie Brown restored to her. Other divorces granted were E. E. Stuckey from Ethel Stuckey, Sophie Evans from Adolph Evans, E. Craven from Ruby Craven and J. D. Craven from Jewell Glover.

SEERS SETTLEMENT OF McFARLAND ESTATE

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Application to be appointed temporary administrator of the estate of W. P. McFarland was filed with the county clerk Friday by Mrs. Lena Stewart McFarland. No will had been made and according to the petition filed the estate was valued at about $10,000. Mr. McFarland was a prominent jeweler of Port Arthur and according to the petition, the business requires immediate attention and Mrs. McFarland stated that it would result in financial injury to close the business pending a settlement of the estate.

JURY TO RESUME PROBES TUESDAY

9 More True Bills Returned Saturday

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Nine more grand jury indictments were brought in Saturday morning, making a total of 50 returned in the past two days. There were 41 indictments returned to Judge George C. O'Brien of the 58th district court Friday noon on his return from San Antonio. No arraignments were made for the organization to adjourn Tuesday morning. They have been in session since the first Monday in May and the term will end on September 13.

Another grand jury can be called together on October 6 by Judge J. D. Campbell of the 60th district court. Since so many bills have been returned by the present organization during the long summer term there are indications that another grand jury will not assemble until the next regular term.

Nine of the persons named in the last indictment were in jail, but eight arrests were made on the first 41 bills brought in. Four of the bills were for burglary, two for theft, and another man was charged with forgery. There was one arrest made on a liquor complaint.

Practically all bills returned were for burglary, felony theft and liquor law violations. There were no murder indictments directed against white persons.

All arrests will probably be made on the bills returned by the sheriff's department within a few days and will then be made public.

RURAL SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 2

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Practically all rural schools in the county will open on Tuesday according to Miss Mary Sandall, county school superintendent. Miss Sandall stated that there are few changes in the teaching forces in the rural schools. The new Amelia school will not be completed until September 15, and students will not be enrolled in that vicinity until that time.

CANDIDATES MUST FILE EXPENSES SEPT. 2

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Final expense accounts of all candidates for office in the run-off election on August 23 are due to be returned by September 2. All candidates with the exception of those seeking state offices have filed their accounts. The reports show that J. Wesley Garrett, seeking the office of county tax collector, spent the most money in his campaign, since his expenses totaled $430.

COURT HOUSE TO CLOSE LABOR DAY

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—The regular meeting of commission ers court on Monday will not be held and they will not meet again until September 8 on account of Labor Day. Nearly all offices in the court house will also be closed. A few deputies will remain on duty in the office of the county clerk and tax collector, but practically all employees will be given a holiday. No courts will be in session on Monday.

R. E. Word Case To Be Heard in 60th Court

Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Murder cases have been set for Tuesday in both the 58th and 60th district courts here.

Antonio Garcia, Port Arthur Mex can asked that his case be set special ly in the 58th district court. A special venire was drawn the past week and hearing set for Tuesday by Judge George C. O'Brien.

The case of R. E. Word is due to be heard in the 60th district court. It will be the third case on a murder charge to come up in Judge Campbell's court in the past two weeks.

CRASH IMPROVING
Special to The News.
BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 30.—Albert Obregon, 17-year-old messenger boy who was injured in an automobile accident the early part of the week, was reported as improving at Hotel Dieu today. The boy sustained a fracture of the jaw and internal injuries. It was first announced that he would not live on account of his injuries, but his condition has improved so in the past two days that hope is held out for his recovery.

IT'S HOTTEST IN 25 YEARS HERE

Weather Goes On Rampage, With Off Shore Breeze

For continued heat, this summer waving into the first month of autumn, holds the record throughout the 25 years of Port Arthur's existence, according to old timers here.

On every side, from veteran dwellers in the semitropics, and from those who hail from regions a little farther north, the hue and cry of "I never saw such weather," or "this is the hottest weather ever."

And all of that is just about right. Records in the office of Ernest Carson, U. S. weather bureau observer, dating back a number of years show that the summer of 1924 will go down into weather history as the record-breaking summer.

Residences and downtown locations which before have been noted for being cool this summer have wilted and blistered under Old Sol's warmest shining, and occupants forced to load drinks, electric fans and other means of overcoming the heat.

Winds from off shore, instead of the usual prevailing Gulf breezes out of the south, across Lake Sabine, have contributed in a large measure to the record heat during the past few weeks. Just what went wrong with the weather and sent Port Arthur a hot stove lid, as it were, is impossible to determine.

Coupled with the sustained temperature of 90 and above in the shade, and the breathless days and nights, has been a drought, unbroken for weeks past by even a real heavy thunder shower. Taken all together, drought, calm and heat have all but left Port Arthuriens "hard boiled," or at least wilted. To beaches along Lake Sabine and the Gulf they have hied in desperate effort to cool themselves, and the fresh water streams and lakes in the woods to the northward also have given refuge to sweltering, hot men, women and children.

FAIR OFFICIALS ARE OPTIMISTIC

Last Impediment to Big Fair Removed, They Say

With the signing up of one of the biggest amusement companies in the country, Dodson's World Shows, to provide the midway attractions fair officials feel the past week has brought the most important development since the fair idea was inaugurated three months ago.

Postponement of the initial exposition from the week of September 23-24 to October 14-15, will give much more time, which was greatly needed by a number of committees. President Gene Gifford states the three weeks gained by the show postponement will mean a bigger and better show, with many more exhibits.

Many Spaces Taken
Fair weather also will be gained by the postponement and this is a factor which will make for better crowds, according to Gifford. Athletic events will probably see some change with the new dates as football is expected to be substituted for the baseball contests planned.

Concession and exhibit spaces have been taken rapidly, and the three weeks added time will give the committee in charge of this work, Earl Allen chairman, to arrange for more booths. The picture show building at the pier grounds, where the fair is to be held, is being enlarged with a 30-foot addition to the rear. This building will house the women's exhibits.

The building planned by the material men has not been definitely decided upon, but plans have been drawn, and according to George Carter, chairman, it is likely to be erected. Several merchants have shown willingness to take booths in the proposed building, pay a reasonable rent for a three-year lease, and in this summer give room in the main building for other merchants to exhibit who are now being held back for lack of space.

Women's Division Active
Mrs. E. A. Young, director and chairman of women's activities with 13 different divisions, states the postponement dates will mean a much larger exhibit than at first planned. A number of women's committees which because of lack of time and made only temporary arrangements for showings this year, will now be able to complete exhibits.

Printing of the fair catalogue will be some time this week and will be mailed all over South Texas. Many entries are coming in all divisions without a catalogue of premiums ever being issued. With its appearance it is believed hundreds will pour in which otherwise would never have entered.

Particularly have entries for poultry awards been a surprise, according to W. E. Townsend, chairman of this division. All breeds are being entered, and it is likely space in the exhibition tent where the poultry show will be held will have to be enlarged. Townsend states.

Trevino Transferred To Consulate at McAllen

Word that Prof. S. J. Trevino, Mexican consul here now, has been transferred by his government to McAllen and that he will leave with his family Tuesday to his new location was received here Saturday.

Prof. Trevino states he will be succeeded by Basilio Bunkle, who comes from the Mexican consulate at McAllen.

"I wish through The News to thank the citizens of Port Arthur, my many friends among the business men and all who have been so kind in co-operating with me and my government during my stay here. If while at McAllen I can ever be of service to anybody from Port Arthur, it will be a great pleasure to me," Consul Trevino said.

of songs, dances and minstrelsy. Dunn says. There will be two acts and 17 scenes. A 30-minute minstrel will conclude the first act.

For the new dances which have been brought for the occasion, Stephens states he has never found such a large number of young women who danced so well. The fact the ones in the choruses many of them appeared last year in the Legion revue directed by the same company and have participated in other high class shows here and at Beaumont, makes this part of the program an assured success, the director states.

Practically all music dances and songs have been written exclusively for this show which is appearing here under the Ming Production company. Many of the songs can not be bought on the market, but are copyrighted for exclusive use by the Ming company, Legion officials said.

Seat sales are progressing nicely, according to L. J. Paschal in charge of this committee. Choice reservations for the three nights are being arranged for and Paschal states he believes the three nights will be sold before the show begins.

This week will be spent in intensive practice by the large cast. Next week Chris Ming will be here in person and will for five nights put the finishing touches on the offering.

CANAL SESSION SLATED OCT. 17

Jollification Meet to Celebrate Progress

A large delegation of Port Arthuriens in attendance at the twentieth annual meeting of boosters of the Intra-Coastal canal, scheduled for October 17 and 18, will be urged by George N. Bliss, director of the canal association, he said Saturday.

The gathering of the association this year will be of more than ordinary significance, and it is expected to be the largest in the history of the organization since it was formed in Victoria, Texas, 20 years ago, according to Bliss.

Bliss said it is a little early to know definitely who will attend the meeting at New Orleans in October, but he is planning to attend, and said there should be, and doubtless will be, a number of Port Arthuriens present.

Jollification Session
"Our meeting this year is going to be in the nature of a jollification, more having been accomplished in the promotion of the canal during the past year than we did in all the 19 years since the organization meeting in Victoria," President Holland said, outlining the progress of the workers for the canal.

"I feel that final success is assured. There is every indication that the River and Harbor Legislative Act which contains the Intra-coastal canal project, and carries the approval of the U. S. government engineers and the recommendation of the senate committee, will pass at the next session of Congress in December," the president of the association set forth.

Large delegations from every city and town on or contiguous to the route of the Intra-Coastal canal from New Orleans to Corpus Christi, through Louisiana to the Sabine river, thence down the river and ship canal to Port Arthur, are urged by President Holland to be in attendance at the New Orleans meeting. Plans are going forward for record entertainments and unusual interest in the sessions, although these plans have not been definitely formulated.

Hope for Action in Fall
Reports made before congress by General George W. Goethals, acting as consulting engineer for the canal association, and the U. S. army engineers recommended the construction of the canal on the basis of a nine-foot depth and with a bottom width of 100 feet, at an estimated cost of $16,000,000. The river and harbor bill, in which the appropriation was included, was not reached on the calendar, and its consideration, therefore, delayed until the short session which convenes in December.

The general belief that the construction of the canal will be authorized shortly after congress convenes has produced much enthusiasm among its advocates in Louisiana and Texas, and it is anticipated that this fact will result in a record breaking attendance at the New Orleans meeting of the association in October. President Holland said. Invitations have been extended to members of both houses of congress to attend the association's meeting, and it is expected that several speakers of national prominence will be provided by the various civic bodies of New Orleans.

The Laboring Man's Friend

Labor Day recalls to our minds the story of the fishing party in a leaky boat some distance from the shore when everybody was ordered to "Either row, bail, fish or cut bait."

Life is just like that—we each must select our job and do it; we each must make our individual contribution toward the common welfare, the community good.

Ours is to serve the People of Port Arthur at all times with the highest quality foodstuffs at the lowest possible price.

We will remain closed all day Monday as a tribute to Labor

MODEL HOME IS NEARLY FINISHED

Thousands Have Viewed Progress in Construction

The Model Home being built in Dryden place under the supervision of Mrs. M. L. Gill in collaboration with practically every business institution in Port Arthur, will probably be completed this week and will then be turned over to the furnishers. This week has seen the completion of the exterior with the exception of a small amount of plastering. All the face brick has been laid and the general architectural style exhibited in pictures followed. The medieval old English effect of a specially decorated door resembling the entrance to a castle, is also being placed.

The interior plastering is progressing and will probably be completed by the middle of the week. The walls of the interior will not be well exposed, but will be plastered with appropriate artistic stencils being used for decorative purposes.

A feature of the building being given final attention is the beautiful fireplace which will be one of the principal interior attractions. Following a special design with cherubim figures placed around the fire place is unique and is commanding a great deal of attention from visitors who are daily watching the building's progress.

The pains with which the Model Home is being built has been an object of comment from the thousands who drive out daily and nightly and watch the building grow. From the foundation to the roof has the same careful work been done by the contractors in charge.

The six big electric lights which the East Texas Electric company has installed has made it possible for many to view the Model Home at night who could not have the privilege during day. Many drive out each evening and go through the building.

Installation of plumbing supplies and final interior and exterior touches will consume this week.

AUSTIN, Aug. 30.—Adequate preparations was the appeal of the board of regents and faculty of the new Texas Technological college at Lubbock before the state board of control here Saturday.

Bride Quizzed

Murderess now in the Cook county jail at Chicago has a new tenant. She is Pearl Prieskop Gunther, pretty dancing teacher, and a bride of but three days, but who is being held while police investigate the murder of her husband, Raymond Gunther, shot to death near Cicero, Ill. Mrs. Gunther says her husband killed himself because he could not finance a home.

TEXAS A AND M EXES TO GIVE PIER DANCE

A dance for students of Texas A. and M. college, past, present and prospective, is to be held Wednesday night, September 3, at the Pleasure Pier. Officials in the organization said Saturday.

The function will be a get-together for ex-students of A. and M. residing in Port Arthur, for Port Arthur boys now students at the college, and for those who expect to enter A. and M. this year. Those desiring to attend the dance next Wednesday night are asked to communicate with M. P. Frazier, J. C. Moore or E. G. Johns.

BREAK GROUND DEFENSE DAY

Sept. 12 to Witness Start of Army Here

Breaking of ground for the $20,000 armory to be built here by the 111th Engineers club Texas National Guard will be with appropriate ceremonies September 12 in connection with Defense Day program being arranged now. It was announced from the office of Major J. P. Logan Saturday where drive headquarters have been maintained.

With $5,000 in bonds sold this week, $1,600 promised from the city as part of the budget appropriation and other bond sales promised, those in charge of the drive said there was now no question but the armory will be built. Four locations on lands belonging to the city are being considered for the site. It is believed the structure probably will be on Lake Shore drive not many blocks from the city, but this is only tentative, according to those in charge. The bond drive will be rushed to completion this week and plans for the building's erection made as soon as possible, according to headquarters reports.

Women Organize To Fight Jack Walton

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 30.—Will democratic women in Oklahoma be the first to test the strength of women in a political campaign? A threatened split between the democratic party in Oklahoma and the women of the party grew more imminent today with the appearance of a letter written by Mrs. O. H. Calky, woman democratic leader, to women democratic leaders in every county in the state. A plea to the women to help reorganize the democratic party and "laid from the stench of such characters as its senatorial nominee" was made in the letter by Mrs. Calky, who resigned as vice chairman of the democratic state central committee a week ago when that body decided to endorse the nomination of former Governor "Iron Jack" Walton for United States senator from Oklahoma.

Announcement

Of Goldberg's New Shoe Department

OPENING FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 5TH

A rather startling announcement to some and to others one that they have been patiently waiting and watching for, with a great deal of anticipation. With this announcement comes the assurance to many Port Arthur women that NOW they can rest assured that the new and stylish will be theirs and at a nominal cost too, because they know that when Goldberg's says so—it's true.

Ladies' short vamp Parisian and American Styles will be featured

There will be more details from time to time in the News about this new Shoe Department which will be more than interesting to you. Watch the News for the full details.

This Store Will Be Closed All Day Tomorrow

As a fitting tribute to Labor we think it only proper that we should close our doors in order that we, and our employes may join in this once a year festival. For surely without the strength and power of Labor Port Arthur would only be a village such as she was 25 years ago. So it gives us much pleasure to have the privilege of serving so noble an organization as is Labor. May your relations be the same and better in the future as it has been in the past.

Port Arthur Is to Have a Memorial Auditorium

You have submitted to you the first proposition, that can easily become a reality in the securing for Port Arthur a Memorial Auditorium. However to make this Auditorium typical of Port Arthur and worthy of Port Arthur the 111th Engineers ask the undivided co-operation of every loyal Port Arthur business firm and individual.

It's Purely A Port Arthur Proposition

The proposed Auditorium is strictly a Port Arthur civic proposition. The 111th Engineers are not asking for a donation... They are simply asking that Port Arthur loan them the money to build—every penny of which will be repaid to the purchasers of bonds.

Do Your Part Toward Putting It Over

Every loyal individual and firm should subscribe as heavily as possible to these bonds. It is easy to do because they come in such small denominations—$10 to $100—that everyone can share in the erecting of the Memorial Auditorium.

You Can't Lose on These Bonds

These bonds for the proposed Auditorium are 100% safe. You can not possibly lose for the State Treasury allows the 111th Engineers $150.00 per month for a rental for an Armory which when placed in Trust will in due time pay off all of the Bonds. Besides this the building will be rented out from time to time for commercial purposes. This too will help retire the bonds. Hence you see that you are only loaning the money, and for one of the most noble causes.

Department Club Year Book Off the Press And Ready for Distribution

PORT ARTHUR clubs are planning for a very active year's work and soon the air will be filled with the first happenings of the various women's clubs.

The Department Club's 1924-25 year book is off the press and the committee charge is delighted with its results. The club colors of green and white are attractively displayed in the book, which is bound in green and embossed in white letters.

The year books will be put on a special shelf at Memorial library and members may obtain the books by calling at the library and signing for them. No charges will be made for the year books this year, the yearly dues for Department Club members having been increased to $1.50 to take care of the club books.

The Department Club is comprised of six different clubs, each having its own program in full in the year book.

The first session of the Department Club will take the form of a luncheon on October 6 at the Department Club house, with Mrs. K. A. Young, president, presiding. On this occasion Mrs. Young will probably outline her plans for the coming year.

Officers of the Department Club include Mrs. K. A. Young, president; Mrs. R. L. Drake, vice president; Mrs. E. M. Friel, recording secretary; Mrs. L. T. Brooks, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. H. Goodwin, treasurer; and Mrs. H. H. Eubank, parliamentarian.

The board of directors includes the officers of the Department Club and Mrs. Clifford G. Hall, Mrs. M. D. Carter, Mrs. S. E. Schunk, Mrs. A. Goldberg, Mrs. George N. Foltz, Mrs. J. B. Scott, Mrs. H. F. Barker and Mrs. A. F. Graham.

Committees announced in the year book for the ensuing year are as follows:

Program committee: Mrs. A. S. Bailey, chairman; Mrs. T. W. Hughes, Mrs. L. T. Brooks, Mrs. P. T. Williams, Mrs. C. T. Baker and Mrs. C. C. Terry.

Printing committee: Mrs. Henry F. Foltz, chairman; Mrs. R. L. Drake, Mrs. C. Reynolds, Mrs. C. L. Wignall, chairman; Mrs. H. O. Mills, Mrs. H. K. Goodwin and Mrs. Tom Dellinger.

Ground committee: Mrs. J. B. Faint, chairman; Mrs. M. F. Bledsoe, Mrs. W. P. McFarland, Mrs. Harry Baker and Mrs. H. K. Goodwin.

Nominating committee: Mrs. A. J. Beard, chairman; Mrs. Fred A. White, Mrs. R. L. Drake, Mrs. T. W. Hughes, Mrs. F. L. Teuton and Mrs. P. P. Dodge.

Mrs. A. Goldberg is president of the Council of Jewish Women, and other officers are Mrs. M. Blankfield, vice president; Mrs. A. Plattman, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Dauter, corresponding secretary;

Mrs. Teuton Entertains On Thursday

Mrs. F. L. Teuton proved a charming hostess Thursday afternoon when she opened her attractive home, 2111 Procter street, to the Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, South, for the monthly entertainment.

The home was in lovely adornment for the occasion, with delicate tinted roses in combination with green fern clustered in baskets and placed at vantage points about the room.

During the afternoon hours an entertaining program of readings and musical selections was given. Miss Hattie Boone entertained with a pleasing reading, and Miss Ethel King sang a beautiful solo. Miss Frances Carter contributed a charming reading of the afternoon's program, following which a lovely violin selection was rendered by Miss Helen Johnson. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Teuton was assisted in hostess duties by Mrs. B. E. Thompson, Mrs. J. W. Wyatt, Mrs. W. L. Spence, Mrs. H. L. Stafford and Mrs. W. D. Taylor.

Attractive Bride to Be

MISS JANICE OWEN

ATTRACTIVE daughter of Mrs. B. S. Granger of the Model Addition, whose engagement to Mr. Frank Cooper of Casper, Wyoming, was announced at a lovely hospitality given recently by Miss Agnes Watkins.

Miss Owen is one of Port Arthur's loveliest daughters and her marriage to Mr. Cooper will rob Port Arthur society of a charming and gracious member. She is a young woman of magnetic personality and has a host of friends in Port Arthur who are deeply interested in her marriage. Her wedding to Mr. Cooper will take place in Denver, Colo., on September 11. The wedding date is being preceded by a number of charming pre-nuptial affairs.

MRS. BECKER HOSTESS TO MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Mrs. F. E. Becker was gracious hostess to the Missionary society of the Congregational church Thursday afternoon at her home on Fourth street.

Mrs. F. E. Gifford conducted the devotional service with prayer by Mrs. W. J. Steck. Two interesting talks on "The American Missionary Association" were given by Mrs. Gifford and Rev. C. E. Waldner, and Mrs. Charles Hoag made a short talk on "Turkey." A social hour followed and the hostess served a dainty ice course.

Those in attendance were Mrs. S. E. Schunk, Mrs. Charles Hoag, Mrs. F. E. Gifford, Rev. C. E. Waldner, Mrs. B. E. Elmer, Mrs. W. J. Steck, Mrs. E. M. Elmer, Mrs. G. H. Barker, Mrs. J. E. Hall, Mrs. J. E. Barker and Mrs. J. E. Becker.

While at camp Miss Young was featured as the leading lady in two delightful plays. She also visited in New York and other eastern points.

JESS TOOK LAST CHANCE

"After three years of doctoring for my stomach I became discouraged and swore I wouldn't take anything else. I was bloated with gas all the time. Someone praised May's Wonderful Remedy to highly that I decided to take a chance. I am now feeling like a new man." It is a simple, harmless preparation that reaches the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.—Ad.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Prudhomme of 431 Marshall avenue left Friday for an automobile trip to Marshall for a short visit with relatives and friends. They were joined in Beaumont by their daughter, Miss Myrtle Prudhomme, who was returning from Galveston after a short stay in that city with Miss Velma Lee Macchia.

Society Dull, Vacation Season Wanes As Month Of September Approaches

THE main highways are alive with automobiles bringing happy vacationists home from the quietness of the country or the gaiety of the seashore.

The last of August usually marks the height of the vacation season, and as the month of September approaches the season begins to wane. A few weeks more and the 1924 summer season will be a memory.

The proximity of the new school year is bringing back to the city families who have children of school age, for after a summer of strenuous play the boys and girls have to be tossed out in new clothes for the term.

Many who have already returned from their summer vacations are taking one more outing. Especially is this true among the college girls who are preparing for one last vacation before the September opening of the fall school term. The early part of the month will find them home, putting their clothes ready for this final vacation, as well as for the less delightful days of "reading," "writing" and "chumming" that follow.

It is these "last fling" vacation clothes that are demanding their attention just now. Of course the first thing to be considered in buying clothes just now is what type of clothes one needs.

Pretty Shower Tendered Miss Janice Owen

Miss Janice Owen, whose marriage to Mr. Frank W. Cooper of Casper, Wyoming, will take place in Denver, Colo., on September 11, is being complimented with a number of charming pre-wedding hostesses, one of the most delightful of which was the lovely affair on Friday when the girls of the Texas Company refinery office gave a shower in her honor at the office.

The shower proved a happy surprise to Miss Owen, and Miss Beba Holmes presented the gift, a beautiful chest of silver, to Miss Owen on behalf of her fellow employees. The gift was presented in a novel manner and afforded much delight to both the girls and to the attractive bride-elect.

Delicious refreshments were served following the presentation.

Those participating in the charming shower were Mrs. L. D. Beard, Mrs. L. A. Condit, Mrs. Mary Westover, Miss Alexine Mann, Miss Willie Carter, Miss Minnie McDonald, Miss Ida Gray, Miss Ida Hertz, Miss Olga Grotzinger, Miss Margaret Hatcher, Miss Eunice Rogers, Miss Callie Matias, Miss Loretta Stewart, Miss Mary Thornton, Miss Alberta Leroy, Miss Elsie Gruetzer, Miss Clotilde Aiken, Miss Florine Aiken, Miss Lydia Hildebrand, Miss Violet McDonald, Miss Edith Hartman, Miss Ellen Seelie, Miss Mary Kate Johnson, Miss Marie Moore, Miss Mary Kay Douglas, Miss Nora Hunsch, Miss Lillian Davis, Miss Val Henry, Miss Olive Brown, Miss Valerie Pruitt, Miss Beba Holmes and the guest of honor, Miss Janice Owen.

MOONBEAMS HAVE "KID PARTY"

Friday evening at the home of Miss Beulah Boudreau, 1128 Ninth street, The Moonbeams entertained a most enjoyable "kid party."

Dancing was enjoyed during the evening, with music furnished by the violinists, The Campus Quartet, composed of Messrs. Eddie Ledet, J. N. Carothers, Russell Loden, and Charlie Brown, entertained with a number of popular songs. Minor Moss kept the crowd amused during the evening with his stunts and witty remarks.

Miss Katherine Jaraschek won the girls' prize for being the best attired "kid" and Miss Moss received the boys' favor. Refreshments of sticky candy, punch and cake were served during the evening.

Those enjoying this delightful affair were: Miss Beulah Boudreau, Louise Collins, Edna Bess, Pauline Elkins, Inez Babin, Mary Ella Collier, Pearl Lee Cromer, Hazel Borel, Ella Fern Corbin of Shreveport, La. and Katherine Jaraschek; Messrs. George Berlin, Victor Dolan, Allen Babin, Alvin Gentil, Whitney Hartman, Curtis Babin, Tom Stout, Norman Gentil, Minor Moss, Arthur Babin, Junior Riviere, Enoch Provost, Joe Richardson, Edna Derouan, Phil Reray, Scudly Loupe, Edna Ledet, Charles Brown, J. "My Rheumatism is gone—"

There's glorious joy in knowing that there's more Red-Blood-Cells than Rheumatism, and that S.S.S. builds Blood-Cells.

"There are thousands of you men and women just like myself, slaves to rheumatism, muscle pains, joint pains, and horrible stiffness. I had

S.S.S. thoroughly rids the body of Rheumatic Impurities

The wrong idea about rheumatism for 15 years. I didn't realize that increasing blood-cells had the effect of completely knocking out rheumatic impurities from the system. That is why I began using S. S. S. Say what you will, never knew such startling results were possible. Well, folks, besides knocking out my rheumatism, S. S. S. gave me back some of the strength I used to have way back! I've got a better color in my face, my appetite is dandy. I don't use my crutches any more. I'm walking around straight-up on two young legs!" S. S. S. makes people talk about themselves the way it builds up their strength. By building blood-cells it builds nerve strength for young folks who ought to have more, and for older people who have little. It stops pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema, chaps, away blood impurities. You can always rely on it. Start S. S. S. today for that rheumatism. You'll feel the difference shortly. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is the more economical.

A Wish

It is with much pleasure that we look back over the passing years and see the many pleasant connections this store has had with the laboring people. Hence we make the wish that in future years the relations will be, if possible, more pleasant than in the past.

HERE'S TO LABOR

Labor the greatest blessing the earth has today. For without it no man could survive. None of the wonderful luxuries that we all enjoy could be possible without labor. None of the necessities could be supplied—in fact everything would instantly come to a standstill without Labor.

This store—as a tribute to labor will remain closed all day tomorrow—Monday—Labor Day.

POOK HOLLOW HAS A GHOST

Peddler's 'Spirit' Back After 50 Years

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The ghost of Pook's Hollow, quiet for a decade, is once more wandering the sharp and wooded "p" in the old Ball Hill farm, claiming John Manauki, Ball Hill farmer, as his newest victim.

Manauki solemnly vows that he saw the ghost of the departed peddler slain there 50 years ago. He was slowly driving up the hill on a windy, rainy night when he saw occasional gleams of twilight through the ragged cloud blanket which obscured the sky.

At Pook's Hollow the road dips a small ravine, crosses it directly and passes up a shaded stretch, where the trees and bushes crowd the roadway.

An "Uncertain Wall"

Manauki claims that as he reached the bottom of the ravine, he was called by sounds that no wind could produce. Whipping up his horse, he made haste to get along the shaded stretch of road.

The sounds were intermittent and resembled a ghostly wall.

At the worst of the euburata, Manauki says that a cold, wet hand reached into the buggy and slapped him across the face. And as he cried out and started the horse in a gallop, he saw something white moving for a moment among the bushes. The horse, too, seemed frightened, for it continued to run until ready to fall. It trembled the rest of the way home, its driver in a state of collapse.

Many Are Startled

In the years since the murder of the peddler more than one has been startled by a creaking branch and a sight of a flash of white which proved an enormous insect on a sacred piece of bark.

The peddler remains anonymous. Fifty years ago the country was well populated, but distances, due to horse travel and atrocious roads, were magnified. Ball Hill was deeply immersed in the rural. Peddlers on foot and in covered wagons poured to the needs of the farmer.

DEATH DISPELS DREAM OF RICHES

Aged Woman's Fight Ends In Grave

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—After living nineteen years as a recluse, he leaving himself the heir to part of a huge fortune, Mrs. Margaret Kelly, 72, has found the contentment of the grave.

With her passing away, however, went the hope of Maurice A. Foley, 62-year-old cabinetmaker, her protector for nearly two decades, that some day his efforts would bring her the wealth he says rightfully belonged to her.

Mrs. Kelly was found dead in her room in Foley's obscure home several days ago. An autopsy disclosed that pneumonia had caused her death some days previously, and the aged cabinetmaker, who had been held by the police for investigation, was released.

He came from Athens nineteen years ago, he related, to help Mrs. Kelly in obtaining a share in an estate. The amount involved, he insisted, proved to be a fabulous sum, and powerful relatives contested bitterly her claim, clinging to life beyond the century mark, though pretending death to hide their activities.

Obstacle after obstacle, Foley told the police, blocked his efforts in Mrs. Kelly's behalf. But still he hoped that the aged woman died and to gain more time, he tried to conceal her death.

Even in this he failed, and his long vigil over the protected seclusion of his friend was ended. But his mind still clung to the grooves of his dream. He would, he declared, yet see justice done.

SHE PROPOSED TO HER HUBBY

Iowa Girl Admits It In Marital Mixup

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Aug. 30.—A matrimonial bark that set out on a smooth sea three months ago struck ahead waters and finally landed on the rocks here when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ehl swore out a warrant for the arrest of Harold E. Hahn, accusing him of false swearing when he told the marriage clerk that his brother, Howard, was 21.

Hahn is in jail in default of $2,000 bail. The bride, who was Eunice Ehl, 17, has returned to her parents.

She tells a story that proves what the wedding flapper will do when she wants a husband. The girl admits she proposed to young Hahn and knowing that he was not 18, induced his brother Harold to go to the county seat with her and swear Harold was 21. Howard did not accompany them. The girl says she paid for the license, paid the minister's fee and has since supported her husband, claiming that he is too lazy to work.

She left her husband three days ago and returned to her parents. Mrs. Hahn, though she comes of a well-to-do family, went to work as a telephone operator after her marriage.

Benefit Card Party Will Be Given Tuesday

A delightful affair of Tuesday is the benefit card party which will be given by the Pythian Sisters at the K. P. hall, the hour for the entertainment being scheduled at 8 o'clock.

The fascinating games of bridge, five hundred and forty-two will be played during the evening and prizes will be offered for high score in the game. Delicious refreshments will also be served by the committee in charge.

Mrs. R. E. Lashly, Mrs. W. M. Lashly and Mrs. W. F. Sylvester comprise a committee which is making arrangements for the card party. Reservations may be made by telephoning any member of this committee or may be secured at the K. P. hall on Tuesday evening.

The proceeds of the entertainment will go toward the 120 for a girls' new dormitory at the Pythians' orphan home at Weatherford, Texas.

The public is cordially invited to attend the entertainment and assist in such a worthy cause.

MARKETS

WALL STREET JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—With foreign orders and quite a decent volume of wire business in the market the stock had been led to expect today. Many of the leaders got within a reasonable distance of the highs of the year, certainly too high for the bears, many of whom were responsible for hurried wires from various resorts.

Foreigners were buying rail shares with Canadian Pacific strong at 151 1/2, up 7 from Friday's close, Southern Pacific sold at 93 1/2, up 1 1/2. Cast Iron Pipe selling at 107, was strong, up nearly five points from Friday's low.

A prominent operator in this stock has been buying at these levels despite reports that he was selling. As a matter of fact, he is credited with buying which brought the stock up to the present level. Steel was a feature selling at 109 1/2 one point under the high of the year.

The market closed higher.

LEADING LADY STRIKES

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—The devoted admirers of Frau Emmy Shaw, the successful Mme. Pompadour now playing in Dresden, waited in vain recently for the curtain to rise on the second act. The lady had in fact suddenly struck for higher wages. The manager appeared before the curtain and made apologetic excuses. But the audience sided with the actress, and hissed.

11. How Can We Bring About Pledge Keeping in Our Society?—Miss Florence Hugel.
12. Song and Miss Hugel benediction.

And Now For New Industries

With practically only one industry, Oil, Port Arthur has accomplished the seeming impossible—

In fourteen years our population has jumped from 7,663 to 42,618.

Bank deposits have grown from $700,000.00 to over $7,000,000.00

In foreign shipping we lead Boston, Galveston, Norfolk and San Francisco, ranking fifth in the United States.

Land values have doubled, and our schools are the finest in America.

Port Arthur is proud of its progress—Let's make its greatest greatness even greater in the future than it has been in the past. You can help a great deal by co-operating with Port Arthur Business Firms in every way possible.

With More Industries Port Arthur Would Soon Be the Greatest City on the Gulf

JANE NOVAK STARS IN THE LULLABY AT LIBERTY

Mother love is the basis of the theme running through "The Lullaby," starring Jane Novak, which comes to the Liberty theater Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The mother which Miss Novak portrays in the first part of "The Lullaby" is a new type of mother, one who comes to this country from her native Italy, joyful, exuberant and devoted. But this mother, through long separation from her child, is shut out from the sight of her child by a barrier by social tradition.

'Cook's Day' Against Dixie Flyers Here Today

Sunday and Monday Affairs Scheduled For P. A. Elk Nine

"COOK'S day" will be held today by the Elks' baseball club when the Dixie Flyers of Beaumont will be played on Lakeshore diamond in the opener of a two-game series, the second affair scheduled for Monday afternoon. Not only will Cook receive a portion of the gate receipts today, but Cook, the handsome gentleman portrayed immediately south of these words, will do the hurling chores for the "Gunmen" today. Today's game is slated to get under way at 3:30.

The Dixie Flyers probably will be working behind Williamson today, a few weeks ago. Between Cook and Williamson there should be a royal battle. The visitors are also expected to appear with one of two Cranes players in their lineup.

Gunn Going on Vacation
Manager Cliff Gunn said last night he would leave on his vacation Monday night, journeying for a week at Columbus, Texas, and would return to town Saturday for a meeting with the Elks hall club Saturday night at 6 o'clock. Gunn authorized the statement last night that the Elks would be ready to play at any time and anywhere against the Athletics, were not out for the money in the proposed series, and were confident of whipping Coughlin's team. Gunn put this out as a statement to stand during his absence from Port Arthur.

"I propose we wait about playing for the suite until the last game, splitting 60-40 before then on each game, but in the last game I'll donate the gasoline to pour on the suits of the losers piled up in the diamond, and set a match to 'em." Thus spoke Manager Harry Coughlin of the Athletics yesterday afternoon, and all which promise, quite well in fact and interest for the Elks-Athletics three-cornered series, to be played on September 14, 21 and 28.

"Any time, anywhere, just so long as only home boys play," Manager Gunn says.

The Elks will have the following players available today: Leach, Cook, Karmak, T. Morgan, Black, Trauth, Fulbright, Corley, Smith, Iglesias, Romero, Davis, Vance.

COOK HIMSELF

PITCHER COOK

Not "Sweet Cookie" Cook, but just plain Cook, as per request of Manager Gunn of the Elks, Cook will moon the mound for the Elks, this afternoon at 3:30 against the first Dixie Flyers of Beaumont on Lakeshore diamond. Today will be "Cook's Day," proceeds going to Cook to relieve from having been forced out of several weeks' work by breaking an arm.

BIG BOY KRAFT GOES HITLESS

Spudders Hammered 6-2 By Champions

FORT WORTH, Aug. 30.—Fort Worth continued its drive towards a mathematical clinch on the Texas league pennant here Saturday by defeating Wichita Falls, 6 to 2, in the first of a four-game series. Kraft went homerless and hitless as his teammates smote Cochrane and Brett for the victory—their seventeenth in the last eighteen starts. Beards hit the only home run today, which came in the seventh inning with none on base.

RED SOX TIE RECORD OF ONLY ONE ASSIST
But one assist was registered by the Boston Red Sox in the first game of the double-header with Chicago. Ehmke, the pitcher, got that. This tied a record established May 19, 1917, when Weaver of the White Sox got the only assist, strangely enough, in a game with the Red Sox.

MANAGER JOHN MEYERS STILL UNDER WEATHER
Johnny Meyers, manager of the White Sox, has not been himself since the appendicitis operation. He has been troubled with nervousness, and when the team went east took time off and consulted a specialist at Troy, N. Y., his home.

Nineteen Years Ago

COBB HAS MADE OVER 5,000 HITS, FOR A TOTAL OF OVER 5,000 BASES. HE HAS BEEN AT BAT OVER 9,700 TIMES, AND HAS BEEN REPLACED BY A PUNCH HITTER TWICE!

Just nineteen years ago a nineteen-year-old youth came to bat in the first inning of a Yankee-Tiger game of August 30, 1905. Jack Chedore, one of the greatest of all pitchers, was on the slab for the Yankees, there were two out, and two Tigers on bases. Young Mr. Sox, since then he has scored over nineteen hundred others. Ty brought his record for total bases up to 5,000 on August 1st, when he ripped out a single and a double off Walter Johnson. When Walter Johnson pitched his first big league game on August 2, 1907, Ty helped to beat him, 2 to 1, by a timely single and stealing two bases. Since then Ty has stolen over 500 more bases.

Only Wagner has played in more games or been at bat more times than Cobb—but, gee whizz, give the kid a chance—this is only his twentieth season, and Huns played 21 years.

They will be worked upon, but Texas will not be played until Texas is actually met.

The Mustangs will be stronger this season than ever in the necessary confidence. In football, a great deal of the competition is in the mind, and the mental condition of the champion this season should be perfect. They will have the title of champions and psychology always is on the side of the champions.

Mackerel at Jetties
On Biting Jamboree
Mackerel are biting 100 per cent strong out at the jetties, according to report received last week by George M. Craig, veteran of Port Arthur (Sherman). Craig says Tom Andrews, Beaumont banker, caught 40 mackerel by himself in a few hours one morning.

"The report on the mackerel comes directly from the steward out of the club ship, the Tarponia."

THREE TEAMS FIGHT IN WESTERN LOOP
The Western Association pennant chase continues a three-cornered race between Okmulgee, Muskogee and Fort Smith. Okmulgee is still leading the pack, but Muskogee ousted Fort Smith from their perch on the second branch of "Doc" Seabough's tree and rushing the champions of the first half of the season.

Michigan's toughest opponent this fall, judging from present indications, will be Hagen. They meet at the dedication of the latter's new stadium, Oct. 18. Michigan hasn't lost a game since the 14-0 Ohio State defeat in 1921.

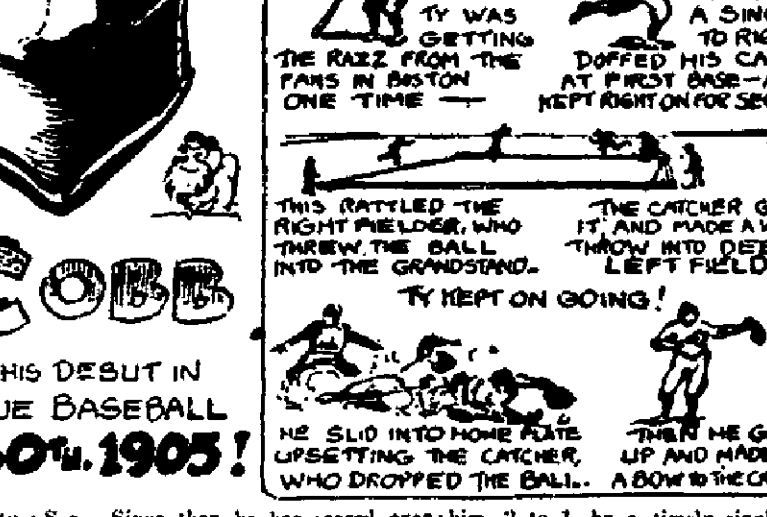

Now you can see the picking and preserving of figs there, every day in the week.

LeRoy McCall is in charge of our Hampshire office and will show you around and help you to decide on your selection. Our Hampshire office will be open every day, including Sunday, from noon 'till dark. It is located north of the Hampshire postoffice. Active and reliable agents wanted in Port Arthur.

SHIPPERS WIN FIRST ONE 12-2

LOSE SECOND TO ROY CRUMPTON, 2 TO 0

After trouncing the Crabs 12 to 2 in the first game, the Exporters fell before Roy Crumpton's shoos in the second game here today, losing 2 to 0, in the same game, Crumpton only allowed hits.

DeLord Will Pitch For P. A. Cubs Today

DeLord and Townsend will be the battery for the Port Arthur Cubs this afternoon at Beaumont against the Malix Diamonds on the Southern Pacific diamond. The DeLord-Townsend combination has won nine out of 15 games this season for the club.

Manager Daley asks the following players to report at 11:15 nineteenth street by one o'clock: Hattie, Townsend, Yeakum, Henry, C. Zook, LeBlanc, Lackey, Riley, Crenshaw and Carter.

FOUR DOUBLE PLAYS MADE IN SAME WAY

Third Baseman Wilcox, Second Baseman Thompson and First Baseman Collop of Omaha made an unusual record of four double plays in a game with Tulsa. Wilcox started each of the plays and they were all handled by the same men and in the same order.

'Speed Up,' Not 'Slow Down,' Newest Tendency In Regulation of Automobile Traffic

TRAFFIC LAWS NOT RESPECTED

New York Adds Newest Wrinkles

Traffic authorities are finally coming to realize the wisdom of singular change in their traffic laws.

That is, change from slower to faster traffic in congested districts and during heavy traffic hours.

It is an anomaly in traffic regulation, a direct departure from the practice of keeping the speed of vehicles down, the more congested the area the lower the speed.

Now, after years of study and practice, police officials and other students of traffic find that automobiles should be kept on the move to avoid congestion. Instead of falling prey to the difficulty of congested traffic, they have finally decided to take the bull by the horns and curb that bazaarous itself.

The cure is the speeding of traffic. And this is sought by means that practically break existing traffic laws.

Lanes "Broken"

Automobiles are permitted to go through safety zones, instead of around them. They may pass streets at discreet distances, in congested districts, while the car is taking on or discharging passengers. And at some points in certain cities, automobiles are directed to pass street cars to the left.

All to speed up rather than slow up—traffic.

Besides breaking old traffic regulations, authorities are seeking more permanent means of solving the congestion problem. They are widening streets, providing more one-way streets, eliminating bottle necks, installing the block signal system and controlling parking more thoroughly "gangway."

The boulevard stop plan is one of the newest methods to rush drivers downtown in the morning and back home in the evening. Many cities now prohibit driving directly into a main street, and provide a fine or imprisonment unless every motorist stops before entering or crossing a street.

There have been cases also of arresting drivers who traffic police thought were going too slow. And there have been suggestions for additional regulations among which one would prohibit the use of congested streets by inexperienced drivers.

In New York another suggestion has been made by which no auto would be permitted downtown with less than three passengers. This would keep many auto owners driving to business alone, or even being driven down by their chauffeurs. It would mean the use of one vehicle where two or more previously had been taken out.

LONDON RENTS CARS FOR YEAR

$2125 Car Rented Out For $1250

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Automobiles are being rented here for an entire year and the new kind of motorist hasn't the least worry about its maintenance.

This system has been inaugurated by a motor firm here, which manufactures cars listed at a selling price of $2125. For $1250 anyone may hire this auto for an entire year, and all the attendant worries of driving are taken off his shoulders besides. This means that all repairs and adjustments are made free of charge, and all gasoline, oil, grease, tires and other accessories are furnished without cost. The government tax, license fee and insurance charges are also paid by the company.

If the motorist happens to buy gasoline on the road, his money is refunded by the firm. If the car is laid up for repairs, he gets another car until the original car is ready for him. In case of a breakdown, he telephones in to the company's service station and another auto is taken out to him while a wrecking car takes care of the disabled auto.

The only charge the motorist has to stand are those for storage, washing and cleaning. At the end of the year the car is returned free. At the end of two years, it is repaired.

Once a month the auto must be turned in for adjustment.

The charge of $1250 is made on the basis of 18000 miles. If the car is driven farther, an additional charge is made in proportion. If it covers less mileage, a proportional refund is made.

Economy in Kerosene

Before winding the car to have the brakes reined it is well to squirt a little kerosene on the clevis pins and brake band adjustment nuts each day for a week or so in advance. This will eliminate much of the rust and make it easier for the repairer to get the work done without delaying over rusty and "frozen" parts.

OVER THE MILLION

Motor registrations in California are approaching 1,200,000. Total registration fees to date are nearly $6,000,000.

Open car Juliet finds a friend in a new kind of hat fashioned by Elaine, the famous French milliner. The hat is designed especially for touring in open autos. It's a windshield in itself. It's made of lightweight and bound in gray-colored velvet ribbon, and the deep square crown allows it to stand up despite the strongest wind.

BUICK IN HIGH AT FOUR MILES

Maintains Slow Gate For 100 Miles

George Stokes, veteran pedestrian, failed to break the walking record of 24 hours and 36 minutes from Milwaukee to Chicago, a distance of approximately 300 miles now held by Henry Schmell.

Stokes made the attempt to break the record on Friday, August 28th, expecting to complete the walk on August 30th, which was his 60th birthday.

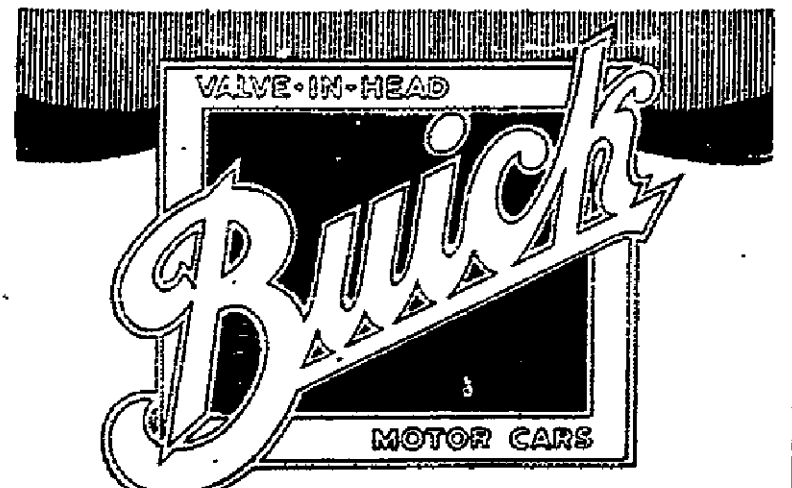

The start was made at 2:00 p. m. on the 28th day and exactly twenty-four hours later Stokes had covered 80.3 miles at an average of 3.3 miles per hour being forced to give up at this distance on account of an acute attack of indigestion. He finished the trip to Chicago in an automobile.

Stokes' attempt to walk from Milwaukee to Chicago was really a contest between him as a lone distance walker, and a Buick automobile selected in high gear which was to keep up with, but not pace the walker. The car which was a new 1935 Buick Standard Six performed the difficult task of running in high gear all the way at the average speed of 3.3 per hour. After Stokes' drop-out, the car continued on its way, arriving at Logan Square, Chicago, with an average speed of 4 miles an hour for the entire distance.

Harry Dole, automobile editor of the Wisconsin News, took the car in high gear and mailed the key to Rockwell Street, automobile editor of the Chicago News, who met and unlocked the car at the end of the trip.

George Stokes performed a wonderful feat in walking 80 miles in 24 hours at the age of 60 years, and the Buick car performed an equally remarkable feat in covering 100 miles at an average of 4 miles an hour and at times as low as two miles an hour.

EXPLORER PICKS CHRYSLER CAR

Used on 10,000 Mile Tour Of U. S.

When Lovell Thomas, one of the world's greatest explorers, an American whose name is associated with that of Amundsen and Nansen, wanted a motor car in which to make a three month 10,000-mile motor tour of the United States, he looked for the field car model. Thomas, although but 32, has been around the world four times and has seen nearly every unexplored automobile under almost every conceivable condition. Upon his return to America recently from two years in India, Tibet, Afghanistan, Baluchistan, Waziristan and Malaya, he at once became interested in the Chrysler Six. An engineer with a living camp or described this car as being conventional only to the extent that it used gasoline for fuel and had four wheels. In every way, Thomas was told, the car was in advance of anything on the market. Thomas investigated for himself. He subjected a Chrysler Six to every possible hardship. And in the end he selected that car to make his epoch-making trip—a journey that might be described as "Seeing America Last." Inasmuch as Thomas has been in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, in fact everywhere with the exception of South America.

It was of Thomas that Lord of the road after the rear tires.

Northcliffe said he saw more of the world than any other one man. He was on all fronts with the exception of the Eastern. He was the only American observer with Field Marshal Viscount Allmohr, the deliverer of the Hot Land. He was with Colonel Thomas Lawrence during the historic Arabian campaign. He was in Germany during the revolution.

Par Performance

Is your car up to the part? Many car owners ask this question but do not know how to decide the point for themselves. Frequently they will find nothing particularly the matter with the car even if they go over it carefully, testing plugs, listening for knocks, etc. To test the car for "par performance" the stunt is to find out what sort of performance several unlikes of cars are giving in local demonstrations. Find the average of this performance, for speed, slow and fast hill climbing, gas mileage, stopping and such like. It is necessary to judge "par performance" on a basis of the average. You can't expect your light six to perform like a lumber and powerful eight, and you should expect better performance from your six than the local dealer can show for a small four.

Keep Your Distance

Much of that far and near you get all over the front of the car is the result of following too close behind a high speed truck. Most of these vehicles do not have fenders deep enough in the rear to catch the spray.

That Saturation Joke

One of the best cures for the fear of a "saturation point" in the sale of automobiles is to be reminded that in the year 1915 people were saying just what they say today about the automobile situation. Overproduced. Market for cars glutted. Everyone has a car. And so forth.

The end of 1915 found nearly 2,500,000 cars on the streets. It was terrible. The world had never seen so many cars at one time. People were going gas-buggy. It couldn't keep up. Too expensive to own cars. A "saturation point" was impending.

Then despite an interruption by the greatest war in all history, and its aftermath of business "turmoil," the American people managed to add about 25,000,000 more motor vehicles to those already in use.

Like a flash it was done. Fifteen million cars instead of two—and no end of it in sight.

Motorists are saturated with the saturation joke. So long as the public prefers to ride, so long as people are born so long as cars wear out the lesson of 1915 will doubtless apply indefinitely.

Little Oil May Prove Dangerous For Auto

The idea in keeping the crankcase filled with good oil in the case of motors lubricated by the circulating splash system is to insure better quality for every drop of oil that is splashed upon the walls of the cylinders or fed to the bearings. The oil slip pans, or trough, hold but a comparatively small amount of lubricant so that if there is enough oil to prime the pump the engine will have enough oil to work on a eu when there are but two or three quarts in the crankcase, but because there is so little oil its quality will be cut to the danger point. Two quarts of oil would heat up so rapidly as to break down as a lubricant and seriously damage the motor. When the tank is generously supplied with oil all the lubricant operates at a lower temperature and is thus able to withstand heat and adequately lubricate the motor.

New York Points Way In Traffic Control

New York's new traffic laws require that headlights must clearly show objects 200 feet ahead. Headlights must illuminate the rear number plate.

Violations of the law are punishable by a fine of not exceeding $25 or imprisonment for not more than 30 days, or both. The violations include:

Operating unlicensed motor vehicle, or without proper license plates. Driving by a person under 15 years unless with chauffeur or owner.

For not stopping on signal from a person driving a horse.

For disregarding rules when meeting or passing other vehicles. A maximum sentence is provided of $100 fine or 60 days in jail provided in the case of anyone who receives a transfer of a motor car without certificate issued by the state.

Care of Balloons

While it is true that being flexible and under very low air pressure full balloons are not damaged by striking the car the extra lift necessary to keep the car from sinking into the mud, care should be exercised to prevent scraping the sides against the curb. The walls are thin and their flexibility is no protection against scraping and chafing.

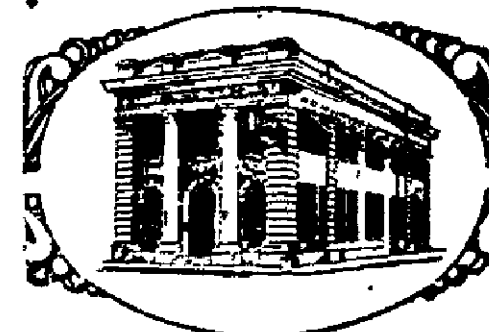

See that your jack is capable of giving the car the extra lift necessary for removing a flat balloon tire. It may be well to carry a small block of wood in the tool kit to fit under the jack, in event of a tire change in soft ground.

Just as in the case of cord tires air pressure should be varied to fit the road and load conditions, increasing the pressure for greater loads and balancing such changes with due consideration for the condition of the roads to be traveled.

Finishing Finish

Here are 10 ways of shortening the life of the paint on your car. Wash the car with soap and water right after it has come from the factory. Aim the water hose straight against the paint. See that the hose has a nozzle. Wash the hood while the engine is still hot. Never dust the car before washing it. Use gasoline on the wheels. Don't bother to buy the right kind of soap. Wash with soap and chamomile without seeing that they are free from grit. Don't bother to polish the car. If you do, make sure to use a cheap, oily polish that will pick up all the dust available.

MIGHTY LABOR A Nation's Tribute

ON labor depends the progress and prosperity of a nation.

All science and invention, commerce and industry look to it for stability, strength and sound finance. In war and peace the hand of labor, with its power to construct or destroy, alone has the means to make the world a better place in which to live.

All our luxuries and necessities, the automobile, aeroplane, telegraph and steamship lay at the feet of labor.

A nation's gratitude sets a holiday, the laboring man's day, to honor the brawn and sinew and skill that has been responsible for the progress of the world through the ages.

Veola, the chocolate village beauty, has stopped in for a package of magenta dye, and a couple of coconut rounds. Veola's papa is pastor of Zion Church, and Veola sings in the choir.

Three steady customers of the general store. From left to right: The little girl who buys a lollipop, the harrassed farmer's wife, who can't think with all the noise the children are making—she has six of her eleven offspring with her this morning—and lastly, the strong-minded matron, who wants what she wants good, and no mistake.

Jesse, the beautiful camper, has replenished the larder for over Sunday at Camp Hot Dog. Girls certainly are a lot freer than they used to be, but some of the so-called simple girlish charms seems to have been parked by the wayside.

"Only last Tuesday, I said to Maria as we drove past, 'My dear, if old Grandpa Tiven could see the way the old place looks, he'd turn right over in his grave.'"

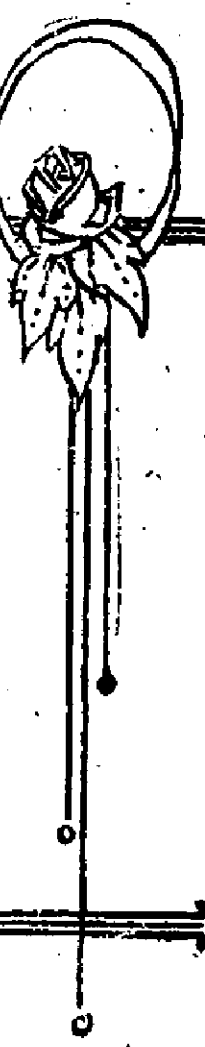

The young bloods of Hicksville watch the gay life of the village from the doorway of the general store. General opinion has it that Cora Simms (no better than she should be), is on her way to meet the station agent down by the D. and H. railroad bridge.

Meet Rufe Whiffletree, who is not exactly "bright." Rufe wants a packet of cup plug. It's a safe bet that Rufe will forget the yeast cake, which will displease old Mrs. Whiffletree greatly.

Mrs. Babe Ruggles, of the younger married set, has been doing her daily ordering at the store. The ice cream cone will last all the way up North Pleasant Street—and will lighten the journey considerably.

The general store of Hicksville on a busy Saturday afternoon. In the foreground three simple village maidens are being observed more or less critically by the older generation.

The Elusive Companion of Parson White

By G. K. Chesterton

In Which Is Recorded the Mystery Surrounding the Vicar of Ponder's End and What Came of It

IN the scriptures and chronicles of the Law, the records of the Doings, or fellowship of foolish persons doing impossible things, it is recorded that Owen Hood, the lawyer, and his friend Crane, the retired colonel, were partaking one afternoon of a sort of picnic, on the river bank that had been the first scene of a certain romantic incident in the life of the former, the business of reading about which has fallen upon other readers in other days. Suffice it to say that the island had been devoted by Mr. Hood to his hobby of angling; and that the most than in progress was a somewhat early interruption of the same leisurely pursuit. The two old cronies had a third companion, who though considerably "junior" to them, was not only companion but a friend. He was a light haired lively young man with rather a wild eye, known by the name of Pierce, whose wedding to the daughter of the innkeeper of the Blue Boar the others had only recently attended.

He was an aviator and given to many other forms of skyarking. The two older men had eccentric tastes of their own but there is always a difference between the eccentricity of an elderly man who defies the world and the enthusiasm of a younger man who hopes to alter it. The old gentleman may be willing in a sense to stand on his head. But he does not hope, as the boy does, to stand the world on its head. With a young man like Hilary Pierce it was the world itself that was to be turned upside down; and that was a game at which his more grizzled companions could only look on, as at a child they loved playing with, a big colored balloon.

Perhaps it was this sense of a division by time, altering the tone though not the fact of friendship, which sent the mind of one of the older men back to the memory of an old friend. He remembered he had had a letter that morning from the only contemporary of his who could fitly have made a fourth to their party. Owen Hood drew the letter from his pocket with a smile that wrinkled his long humorous cadaverous face.

"By the way, I forgot to tell you," he said, "I had a letter from White yesterday."

The browned visage of the colonel was also marked with the external signs of a soundless chuckle.

"Read it yet?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the lawyer. "The hieroglyphic was attacked with fresh vigor after breakfast this morning and the clouds and mysticism of yesterday's labors hours seemed to be rolled away. Some portions of the cuneiform still await an expert translation; but the sentences themselves appear to be in the original English."

"Very original English," snorted Colonel Crane.

"Yes, our friend is an original character," replied Hood. "Vanity tempts me to hint that he is my friend because he has an original taste in friends. That habit of his of putting the premium on the first page and the name on the next had brightened many winter evenings for me. You haven't met our friend White, have you?" he addressed to Pierce. "That is a shock that still threatens you."

"Why, what's the matter with him?" inquired Pierce.

"Nothing," observed Crane in his more staccato style. "He has a taste for starting a letter with 'Yours Truly' and ending it with 'Dear Sir, that's all'."

"I should rather like to hear that letter," observed the young man.

"So you shall," answered Hood, "there's nothing confidential in it, and if there were you wouldn't find it out merely by reading it. The Rev. Wilfrid White, called by some of his critics Wild White, is one of those country persons to be found in corners of the English countryside, of whom their old village friends usually think in order to observe what the devil their parishioners think of them. As a matter of fact, my dear Hilary, he was rather like you when he was your age; and what in the world you were like as a vicar in the Church of England aged fifty might at first stagger the imagination; but the problem might be solved by supposing you would be like him. But I only hope you will have a more lively life in better clothes. The old boy is always in a state of excitement about something that it comes out anyhow."

It has been said elsewhere that these tales are in some cases of necessity told tall-tales; and certainly the letter of the Rev. Wilfrid White was a document suited to such a scheme of narrative. It was written in what had once been a good hand writing of the bolder sort but which had degenerated into a scribbled energy and made into an illegible scrawl. It appeared to run as follows:

"My dear Owen: My mind is quite made up, though I know the sort of legal long winded things you say against it. I know especially one thing a leathery old lawyer like you is bound to say; but, as a matter of fact, even you can't say it in a case like this, because the timber came from the oak. I have a letter to you, and I know exactly what to do with him or any of his fancies and egyptophantasies. Besides I did it all myself with a little assistance I'll tell you about later; and even in these days I should be surprised to hear that sort of assistance could be anything but a man's own affair. I defy you and all your parchment to maintain that it comes under the game laws. You won't mind me talking like this; I know jolly well you'd think you were acting as a friend, but I think the time has come to speak plainly."

"Quite right," said the colonel.

"Yes," said young Pierce, with a rather vague expression, "I'm glad he feels that the time has come to speak plainly."

"Quite so," observed the lawyer dryly, "he continues as follows:

"I've got a lot to tell you about the new arrangement, which works much better even than I hoped. I was afraid at first it would really be an encumbrance, as you know it's always supposed to be. But there are more things and all the rest of it and God fulfill himself and so on and so on. It gives one quite a weird Asiatic feeling sometimes."

"Yes," said the colonel, "it does."

"What does?" asked Pierce sitting up suddenly, like one who can bear no more.

"You are not used to the 'Asiatic method,'" said Hood indifferently, "you haven't got into the swing of the style. It goes on: 'Of course, he's a big pot down here and all sorts of skunks are afraid of him and pretend to boycott me. Nobody could expect anything else of those pine-apple people, but I confess I was surprised at Parkinson. Sully, of course, is as sound as ever but she goes to Scotland a good deal and you can't blame her. Sometimes I'm left pretty severely alone but I'm not downhearted; you'll probably laugh if I tell you that Snowdrop is really a very intelligent companion."

"I confess I am long past laughter," said Hilary Pierce sadly, "but I rather wish I knew who Snowdrop is."

"Child, I suppose," said the colonel, shortly.

"Yes, I suppose it must be a child," said Pierce. "Has he any children?"

"No," said the colonel, "Bachelor."

"They say he was in love with a lady in those parts and never married in consequence," said Hood. "It would be quite on the lines of fiction and dim drama if Snowdrop were the daughter of the lady when she had married another. But there seems to be something more about Snowdrop, that little sunbeam in the house."

"I'm not sure," said Pierce, "as they always were in those parts, but I don't know."

"But of course it would be a little awkward if she played tricks. How alarmed they would all be if she took it into her head to walk about on two legs like everybody else."

"Nonsense," ejaculated Colonel Crane. "Can't be a child—talking about it walking about on two legs."

"After all," said Pierce, thoughtfully, "a little girl does walk about on two legs."

"But startling if she walked about on three," said Crane.

"If my learned brother will allow me," said Hood in his forensic manner, "would you describe the fact of a little girl walking on two legs as alarming?"

"A little girl is always alarming," replied Pierce.

"I've come to the conclusion myself," went on Hood, "that Snowdrop must be a boy. It seems a likely enough name for a cat, but alarming seems a strange word even for a dog or a cat sitting up to beg."

But a pony on its hind legs might be a little alarming, especially when you're riding it. Only I can't fit this view in with the text sentence—I've taught her to reach down the things I want."

"Lord!" cried Pierce. "It's a monkey!"

"That," replied Hood. "Had occurred to me as possible explanation of the weird Asiatic atmosphere. But a monkey on two legs is even less unusual than a dog on two legs. Moreover, the reference to Asiatic mystery seems really to refer to something else and not to any animal at all. For he ends up by saying, 'I feel now as if my mind were in some much larger and more ancient space of time or eternity; and as if what I thought at first was an oriental atmosphere was only an atmosphere of the Orient in the sense of day-spring and the dawn. It has nothing to do with the stagnant occultism of decayed Indian cults; it is something that unites a real intellect with the immediate, a power as of the mountains with the purity of snow. This vision does not violate by own religion but rather reinforces it. I cannot help feeling that I have larger views. I hope in two senses to preach liberty in these parts. So I may live to falsify the proverb all'."

"That," added Hood, folding up the letter, "is the only sentence in the whole thing that conveys anything to my mind. As it happens, we have all three of us lived to falsify proverb."

Hilary Pierce had risen to his feet with the restless action that went best with his alert figure. "Yes," he said, "I suppose we can all three of us say we have lived for adventures, or had some curious ones, anyhow. And, to tell you the truth, the adventure feeling has come on me strong the minute I've got the detective fever about that parson of yours. I should like to get at the meaning of that letter, as if it were a cipher about buried treasure."

Then he added more gravely: "And if, as I gather, your clerical friend is really a friend worth having, I do seriously advise you to keep an eye on him just now. Writing letters upside down is all very well, and I shouldn't be alarmed about that. Lots of people think they've explained things in previous letters they never wrote. I don't think it matters who Snowdrop is or what sort of children or animals he chooses to be fond of. That's all being eccentric in the good old English fashion, like poetical tinkers and mad squires. You're both of you eccentric in that sort of way, and it's one of the things I like about you. But just because I naturally know about more among the new people, I am something of the new eccentricity. I'm not sure, but they're not half so nice as the old ones. I'm a student of scientific aviation, which is a new thing itself, and I like it. But there's a sort of spiritual aviation that I don't like at all."

"Sorry," observed Crane, "really no notion of what you're talking about."

"Of course you haven't," answered Pierce with engaging candor, "that's another thing I like about you. But I don't like the way your clerical friend talks about new visions and larger religions and lights and life from the east. I heard a good many people talk like that and they were mountebanks or the dupes of mountebanks. And I'll tell you another thing. It's a long shot even with the long bow we used to talk about. It's a pretty wild guess even in this rather wild business. But I have a creepy sort of feeling that if you went down to his house and private parlor to see Snowdrop, you'd be surprised at what you saw."

"What should we see?" asked the colonel, staring.

"You'd see nothing at all," replied the young man.

"What on earth do you mean?"

"I mean," replied Pierce, "that you'd find Mr. White talking to somebody who didn't seem to be there."

Hilary Pierce, fired by his detective fever, made a good many more inquiries about the Rev. Wilfrid White, both of his two old friends and elsewhere.

One long legal conversation with Owen

Hood did indeed put him in possession of the legal outline of certain matters, which might be said to throw a light on some parts of the strange letter; and which might in time even be made to throw a light on the rest. White was the vicar of a parish lying deep in the western parts of Somersetshire where the principal landowner was a certain Lord Arlington. And in this case there had been a quarrel between the squire and the parson of a more revolutionary sort than is common in the case of parsons.

The quarrel intensely resented that irony or anomaly which has caused so much discontent among tenants in Ireland and throughout the world; the fact that improvements or constructive work actually done by the tenant only passes into the possession of the landlord. He had considerably improved a house that he himself rented from the squire; but in some kind of crisis of defiance or renunciation, he had quitted this more official residence bag and baggage, and built himself a sort of wooden lodge or bungalow on a small hill or mound that rose amid woods on the extreme edge of the same grounds. This quarrel about the claim of the tenant to his own work was evidently the meaning of certain phrases in the letter such as the timber coming from the other end of the county; the sort of work being a man's own affair; and the general allusion to somebody's flunkies or egyptophantasies who attempted to boycott the discontented tenant. But it was not quite clear whether the allusions to a new arrangement and how it worked, referred to the bungalow or to the other and more dearly much older; perhaps for the first time they looked old. The young man, seeing their dolorous expression was warmed and tried to speak quickly.

"Look here," he said hastily, "I'll go down there myself and find out what I can for you. I'll go this afternoon."

"Train journey takes ages," said the colonel, shaking his head. "Other end of nowhere. Told me yourself you had an appointment at the old ministry tomorrow."

"But there is no time," replied Pierce cheerfully. "I'll go down."

And there was something in the lightness and youth of his vanishing gesture that seemed really like fear spurring the earth, the first man to mount upon wings. Perhaps this literally flying figure shone the more vividly in their memories because when they saw it again it was in a sudden sense changed. When the other two next saw Hilary Pierce on the steps of the ministry, they were conscious that his manner was a little quieter but his wild eye rather wider than usual. They adjourned to a neighboring restaurant and talked of trivialities while luncheon was served; but the colonel, who was a keen observer, was sure that Pierce had suffered some sort of shock; or at least some sort of check. While they were conducting what to say, Pierce himself said abruptly, staring at a mustard pot on the table:

"What do you think of spirits?"

"Never touch 'em," said the colonel, "I sound port never hurt anybody."

"I mean the other sort,"

He remembered he had had a letter that morning from the only contemporary who could fitly have made a fourth to their party.

elusive mystery of the presence of Snowdrop.

One phrase in the letter he found to have been repeated in many places and to many persons without becoming altogether clear in the process. It was the sentence that ran: "I was afraid at first it would really be an encumbrance, as you know I've always supposed to be."

Both Colonel Crane and Owen Hood, and also several other persons whom he met later in his investigations, were agreed in saying that Mr. White had used some expression indicating that he had entangled himself with something; troublesome or at least; useless, something that he did not want. None of them could remember the exact words but used his all could state in general terms that it referred to some sort of negative nuisance or barren responsibility. This could hardly refer to Snowdrop, of whom he always wrote in terms of tenderness as if she were a baby or a kitten. It seemed hard to believe it could refer to the house he had built entirely to suit himself. It seemed as if there must be some third thing in his muddled existence which loomed vaguely in the background through the vapor of his confused correspondence.

Colonel Crane snapped his fingers with a mild irritation in trying to recall a trifle. "He said it was a—your know—I've forgotten the word—a botheration or embarrassment. But then he's always in a state of botheration and embarrassment. I didn't tell you, by the way, that I had a letter from him, too. Come the day after I heard your letter, and perhaps a little later, and he handed the letter to Hood, who read it out slowly."

"I never knew the old British populace, here in Arden itself, could be broken down by squires and sneaking lawyers. Nobody dared help me move my house again; said it was illegal and they were afraid of the police. But Snowdrop helped and we carried it all away in two or three journeys; took it right clean off the old fool's land altogether this time. I fancy the old fool will have to admit there are things in this world he can't prepare to believe in."

"But, look here," began Hood as if impulsively and then stopped and spoke more slowly and carefully. "I don't understand this. I think it's extremely odd. I don't mean odd for an ordinary person but odd for an odd person; odd for this odd person. I know White better than either of you can; and I can tell you that though he tells a tale anyhow, the tale is always true. He's rather precise and pedantic when you do come to the facts; these illusions quarrelsome people often are. He would do extraordinary things but he wouldn't make them out more extraordinary than they were. I mean he's the sort of man who might break all the squire's windows, but he wouldn't say he'd broken six when he'd broken five. I've always found when I'd got to the meaning of those mad letters, that it was quite true. But how can this be true? How could Snowdrop whatever she is, have moved a whole house, or I suppose you know what I think," said Pierce. "I told you that Snowdrop, whatever else she is, is invisible. I'm certain your friend has gone Spiritualist and Snowdrop is the name of a spirit or a control or whatever they call it. The spirit would say, of course, that it was mere child's play to throw the house from one end of the county to the other. But if this unfortunate gentleman believes himself to have been thrown, house and all, in that fashion, I'm much afraid he's begun really to suffer from delusions."

The face of the two older men looked suddenly much older; perhaps for the first time they looked old. The young man, seeing their dolorous expression was warmed and tried to speak quickly.

"Look here," he said hastily, "I'll go down there myself and find out what I can for you. I'll go this afternoon."

"Train journey takes ages," said the colonel, shaking his head. "Other end of nowhere. Told me yourself you had an appointment at the old ministry tomorrow."

"But there is no time," replied Pierce cheerfully. "I'll go down."

And there was something in the lightness and youth of his vanishing gesture that seemed really like fear spurring the earth, the first man to mount upon wings. Perhaps this literally flying figure shone the more vividly in their memories because when they saw it again it was in a sudden sense changed. When the other two next saw Hilary Pierce on the steps of the ministry, they were conscious that his manner was a little quieter but his wild eye rather wider than usual. They adjourned to a neighboring restaurant and talked of trivialities while luncheon was served; but the colonel, who was a keen observer, was sure that Pierce had suffered some sort of shock; or at least some sort of check. While they were conducting what to say, Pierce himself said abruptly, staring at a mustard pot on the table:

"What do you think of spirits?"

"Never touch 'em," said the colonel, "I sound port never hurt anybody."

"I mean the other sort,"

He remembered he had had a letter that morning from the only contemporary who could fitly have made a fourth to their party.

DAVIS TO OPEN WEST CAMPAIGN

Corn Belt Invasion to Begin Tuesday

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—John W. Davis, democratic candidate for president, opens his personal invasion of the middle west today.

Although his first public appearance is scheduled for Omaha next Friday evening, Davis' campaign strategy will be framed at conferences here, starting Tuesday.

Davis plans to arrive in Chicago Tuesday, coming from Wheeling, West Virginia, with Cordell Hull, former national chairman of the party. He will enter at once into conferences with Governor Charles Bryan, his running mate.

A conference with democratic leaders in the far west is scheduled for Denver Monday and an address before western followers is slated for the following Thursday. The nominee will deal with conservation and reclamation in his Denver speech.

Plans for speaking dates beyond Denver are not yet framed.

'May Heaven Bless Our Friends,' Says Ferguson

TEMPLE, Texas, Aug. 30.—"May Heaven bless our friends," was the caption over a statement to the people of Texas by former Governor James E. Ferguson, published in the first edition of the Ferguson Forum off the press since the returns of the last primary were made known.

"It was a glorious victory," says the former governor, "made possible only by the best and truest friends I could ever find."

"For seven years I have walked in the woods. The days have been cloudy and the nights have been dark. Many times my footsteps have faltered. These friends have cleared the skies and hope again cheers me on," the statement said in part.

"I can and have always thought that I could survive the criticism of men; but I was fearful of my children's plight, those who did not know the facts like I knew them."

"But now the people have honored me and no matter what men say, the name of my children and children is safe."

LaRose Back From Fire Chief's Convention

Fire Chief Clyde LaRose returned last night from an extended trip to Buffalo, N. Y., where he attended the national convention of fire chiefs which he reports was one of the best in its history, with 1400 present.

Chief LaRose drove through with his family as far as Poplar Bluff, Missouri, and proceeded from there by train to the convention. On his return he had with him Chiefs Ferguson of Port Worth and Messrs. of Texas, who stopped over with LaRose for a fishing trip at Poplar Bluff.

He reports that conditions good, making more than 700 miles in three and one-half days.

PT. ARTHUR, GALVESTON BIKERS TO PICNIC TODAY

Motorcyclists of Port Arthur and 10 or 12 from Galveston will be guests of the Houston and Seventh Cycle company at day Sunday at a beach party on McDonald's beach, where trick riding, races, refreshments, swimming and other outdoor sports will be features of the entertainment, officials of the company said Saturday.

The visitors expected from Galveston will drive over the beach road from High Island to McDonald's beach to join the Port Arthurians. The party from this city will gather at the cycle company's store, Houston avenue and Seventh street, at 8 a. m. Sunday, and start for the beach.

MOTORIST ON TRACK DELAYS FAST TRAIN

GAINESVILLE, Texas, Aug. 30.—Santa Fe railroad officials have a new entry on their books explaining the delay of traffic northward of here yesterday afternoon occasioned by an unidentified motorist, who drove his flivver seven miles upon the railroad track and across the Red river bridge into Oklahoma.

Embarkments and high fills prevented the rail motorist from crossing the track until after he had jumped across the river bridge into Oklahoma. Desire to evade the payment of $1 toll exacted at the traffic bridge across the stream at this point was the only explanation advanced by trainmen.

Ball Denies He'll Be An Independent Candidate

HOUSTON, Aug. 30.—Former Governor James B. Ferguson is not capable of judging or prophesying what my course will be under any given state of circumstances," Colonel Tom Ball, Houston, a prominent Texas democrat, an ardent supporter of Felix D. Robertson in the gubernatorial race, said this morning in answer to a statement made by Ferguson at the Temple rally, "that he would not be surprised if Colonel Ball was an independent candidate for governor."

"As we approach everything and every question from different viewpoints, it will be sufficient to say that I am not and will not be a candidate for the governorship of Texas at the November election," Ball said in concluding his statement.

TWO-DAY DRIVE

ual committee not only endorsed the proposition but subscribed for stock. Following are the names of the subscribers:

The factory is a proposition which Port Arthur stands in the way of receiving great financial returns from. The drive chairman points out. Employment of 125 garment workers from the start and with the possibility of 200 being on the employe roll when running to growing capacity means new money coming into Port Arthur via another big pay roll, he points out.

"From a civic standpoint as well as from a sound financial basis, Port Arthur can not afford to let the opportunity for this big industry slip through its fingers. We are not asking for a large subscription. We want hundreds of Port Arthur people to buy stock in small amounts. We want it to be a home town enterprise. With plenty of Port Arthur people financially interested in the factory, it will result in a more rapid success," Lohmann said.

O. D. West, who is being responsible for $51,000 of the capitalized stock, said he has been a successful garment manufacturer for years. He will return to Port Arthur immediately upon being notified all the stock to be raised by Port Arthur is accounted for. He will be active head of the company and will move his family here from Little Rock, where he now has a plant.

It is expected the concern will be capitalized and the factory set up for operation in probably 90 days. Everything will be new and nothing shoddy will be allowed to enter the plant, West made plain on leaving.

Robert Rader Wins Two Degrees at U.

Graduating Saturday night at the commencement exercises at the University of Texas with the degree of bachelor of arts, and bachelor of business administration, Robert F. Rader, son of Captain and Mrs. J. F. Rader, of 114 Ninth street, is expected to return to Port Arthur early next week for a visit with relatives.

During his four years at the university, Rader has been prominent in social and athletic activities, having been elected president of his class during his junior and senior years. Until an injury forced him out of the game, he was on the varsity football team in 1932 and 1933. He was president of the Commerce Club this year, and a member of Alpha Tau Omega and Alpha Kappa Psi fraternities; the German Club, Arrowhead Club, Skull and Bones, and the Inter-fraternity athletic council.

NEW NEDERLAND SCHOOL IS READY

$150,000 Structure To House Grade 5 Up Classes

NEDERLAND, Texas, Aug. 30.—Eighteen teachers will open school here Monday, September 1, classes from the fifth grade upward to be held in the new $150,000 high school building. The lower grades will be kept in the old school building.

Plans of Superintendent R. V. Greer, who comes here from Buna, are to hold a get-together rally of all school patrons on Sunday afternoon, August 31, although this may have to be postponed. Seats for the new building, promised for delivery weeks ago, have not yet arrived, and the rally may not be held for another week.

Fort Neches schools this year are opening on Labor Day, but Nederland schools do not open until the following Monday. An opening enrollment of at least 450 and probably 500 is expected.

All children who have reached the age of six by the opening date are permitted to enter and at mid-year all children since reaching the age of six will be permitted to enter. No kindergarten will be conducted, all being known as first graders.

The list of teachers for Nederland was announced today as follows:

R. V. Greer, superintendent; L. D. Adams, Holland, science; Albert R. Rogers, Bay City, English and history; Miss Mary Kennedy, Proctor, history; Miss Ethel Gaddis, Sour Lake, mathematics; Miss Alfred R. Davis, Jacksonville, Spanish; Mrs. Ollie Crouch, Port Arthur, typewriting, shorthand and bookkeeping; Miss Annie Ruth Blair, Port Arthur, music; Miss Pauline Brady, domestic art and science; Miss Mollie Williams, Collinsville, principal of grade school; Miss Bernice Sheffield, Newton, first grade; Miss Annie May Reinstra, Nederland, second grade; Miss Christina Doornbos, Nederland, third grade; Miss Edna Barrow, Lovelady, fourth grade; Miss E. Jones, Denton, fifth grade; Miss Esther Newberry, Beaumont, sixth grade; Miss Ruth Commins, Port Neches, seventh grade; Miss Alberta English, Port Arthur, grades.

NEDERLAND C-C MEETS MONDAY

M. W. Oakley New Head Of Commerce Body

Special to The News.—NEDERLAND, Texas, Aug. 31.—Members of the chamber of commerce will meet in regular session Tuesday night. The directors of the chamber held their meeting last week Tuesday.

New officers of the chamber are as follows: M. H. Oakley, president; first vice president, D. J. Reinstra; second vice president, J. H. Boyd. The retiring president is C. E. Gibson. While William McNeil and E. W. Jackson, first and second vice presidents respectively, have moved to Beaumont.

Work on New Water System Is Delayed

NEDERLAND, Texas, Aug. 31.—Work on the proposed water and sewage system for Nederland and Port Neches is standing still for the time being, although the proposition may be broached again this winter. Times are considered not auspicious for the floating of a bond issue at present to take care of the scheme. Should the plan be brought up again, it would be necessary either to incorporate or to form a district under state legislation.

OAKLEY TO REPRESENT NEDERLAND AT CONFAB

NEDERLAND, Texas, Aug. 31.—M. W. Oakley, justice of the peace here, will represent Nederland at the Democratic state convention in Austin next week. J. B. Cook, another delegate, is now in California and will be unable to attend the convention. J. W. Price, also a delegate, may attend the Austin meeting.

Nederland Notes

A number of friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McNeill, Sr., on Thursday night to help Mr. McNeill celebrate his birthday. "42" was chief diversion for the evening. Delightful refreshments were served to Messrs. Hasler, Merridith, Wisdom, J. B. Cook, Jr., William McNeill and John Bell of Beaumont and James McNeill. The honoree was the recipient of many useful gifts.

Miss Angelina Kaper was a charming hostess to the Monday Bridge club at her home on the name day, with an additional table for guests. After the games of bridge Mrs. J. M. Carter was high and Mrs. George Beard low. A tempting salad course was offered to Messdames Matt, Geo. Beard, A. S. Chesnut, J. L. Black, J. E. Williamson, W. E. McCauley, Geo. Roach, O. H. McDonald, E. T. Ingerverson, C. T. Ingerverson, John Kaper, Wm. McNeill of Beaumont, J. H. McNeill, Jr., and Miss Kaper.

A charming hospitality on Thursday was the Thursday Rook club meeting at the home of Mrs. E. D. Dawson. After several games of Rook, Mrs. C. L. Freeman winning high and Mrs. George Roach consolation, a delightful ice-cream was served to Messdames J. T. Burman, O. H. McDonald, George Roach, J. E. Williamson, C. L. Freeman, A. S. Chesnut, J. M. Carter, C. A. Ingerverson, J. B. Cooke, Jr., H. D. Dawson and Miss Angelina Kaper. Little Miss Esther Dobson celebrated her birthday Thursday by inviting a number of little friends to her home. Games dear to the heart of young folks were greatly enjoyed on the lawn from 5 to 7 o'clock. Peach ice cream and cake were served to the following: Miss Gibson, Mabel Sheffield,

NECHES SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPT. 1

Faculty of 22 To Preside This Year

Special to The News.—PORT NECHES, Aug. 30.—Port Neches public schools will usher in the new term for Jefferson county this year when enrollment will begin Monday, September 1, for the biggest school year in the history of the city.

Prof. J. A. Hicks begins this year with a faculty of 22 trained teachers and with 24 units of work accredited with the State University. Securing a number of additional units during the summer by Prof. Hicks who went before the education board at Austin and presented Port Neches' claim for higher recognition. Two bus lines will bring children in from surrounding neighborhoods and give them advantages of the local system. The enrollment is expected to jump to about 200 increase because of the bus lines.

Athletic prospects this year are fair, a number of star players graduating last year but enough remaining to form a nucleus for the various teams. Football practice will begin at once.

Probably two days will be spent in enrollment and regular work should be in progress by Wednesday, Prof. Hicks believes.

Port Neches, Nederland, Men Do Not Favor Hampshire Road Bond

Special to The News.

PORT NECHES, Aug. 30.—Pro-ject No. 7 which includes Port Neches and Nederland, can see no need of a bond issue for a road via Hampshire to High Island and com-missioners appointed by the Cham-ber of Commerce from these two places will oppose such an issue at the last ditch at the meeting to be held at Beaumont soon to discuss the matter.

The fact this project could gain little if anything by the bond issue and stands to lose funds needed for other purposes is the reason advanced by chamber officials. Repre-sentative of the Beaumont meeting from this precinct are A. L. Broome, from Port Neches and D. J. Reinstra and Hugh Kitchens of Nederland.

MANY BRING BABES TO HEALTH CLINICS

Special to The News.—PORT NECHES, Aug. 30.—The Red Cross Baby clinic held every other Friday here at the First Meth-odist church by Dr. J. D. Meslin of Beaumont and Mrs. C. T. Finley of Port Arthur are being better at-tended all the time, officials state.

The clinic has been of great help to mothers with babies during the hot summer months and it is begin-ning to be regarded as one of the best institutions here.

Two bus lines will bring children in from surrounding neighborhoods and give them advantages of the local system. The enrollment is expected to jump to about 200 increase because of the bus lines.
